

I do not agree with legislation to allow cell phone usage in the air. There is no evidence that states cell phones do not interfere with navigational instruments. An individual on a cell phone is annoying at a store but put several people in a small space all yakking on cell phones leaves everyone else with no place to escape to and anger will brew. With safety of passengers, attendants, pilots and people on the ground it is better left as it is....in the air - no phone!
